Brookhaven begins search for new parks and recreation director

Brookhaven, GA, Aug. 19, 2015 – As our Parks and Recreation Director has announced his retirement, the city of Brookhaven is proud of and grateful for the work Jerry Kinsey has accomplished.

Under his leadership, our Parks Department was responsible for many firsts, including an Easter Egg Hunt, a 5K in Blackburn Park, and more community-building events. Our residents are also getting to see the first of many improvements, including new and better playgrounds and new benches and trash cans. We wish Jerry luck in his retirement, and also announce that we are beginning a search for a new Parks & Recreation Director.

“Jerry has been a tremendous asset to the City of Brookhaven,” said City Manager Marie Garrett. “He identified critical needs for improvements in our parks – from tennis court resurfacing and a recreation program guide to constantly searching for ways to expand our parks programs with running clubs, youth soccer, kickball and more. Jerry has set the right course for our Parks & Recreation Department.”
