Judge dismisses Pink Pony suit

Brookhaven, GA, Dec. 24, 2013 – A DeKalb County judge dismissed the Pink Pony’s suit against Brookhaven, ruling it has no legal merit.

Monday, Superior Court Judge Courtney L. Johnson issued an order granting Brookhaven’s motion to dismiss the suit. The adult club filed suit in May.

“The city is very pleased that the DeKalb County Superior Court upheld Brookhaven’s sexually-oriented business regulations and resolved the numerous legal issues Pink Pony asserted in this lawsuit,” Brookhaven Mayor J. Max Davis said. “This confirms that the city’s regulations satisfy constitutional standards.”
